

TRIED AND TRUE MEN COACHING BIG ELEVENS

With One Exception, Leading Teams Will Be in Charge of Famous Teachers.

PRINCETON TEMPTING FATE

Has Adopted Yale's Old Method of Trusting to Skill and Enthusiasm of Recently Graduated Players.

No better line could be obtained on the outlook of the leading Eastern football teams for the coming season than a close study of the men who will act as their coaches. At no time in the history of the great intercollegiate game has so much attention been given to the selections of men for this position, and as a result the big elevens are in charge of tried and true mentors with the possible exception of Princeton.

Percy D. Haughton at Harvard, George H. Brooke at Pennsylvania, Howard Jones at Yale, Charley Daly at West Point and Dr. Al Sharpe at Cornell, are five men who are unquestionably the leading teachers of football in the East. Princeton alone combats them with an inexperienced man in Bluthenthal, centre rusher one year ago, and a rattling good one at that. Of this list Haughton, of Harvard, and Sharpe, of Cornell, are the only ones who coached their respective elevens last season. Haughton to an intercollegiate championship.

Yale and Pennsylvania have been smarting considerably of recent years. Pennsylvania especially sliding back to such an extent that an almost hopeless situation has been the condition for two years, which was partially overcome by the eleven making a whirlwind finish last year in its three big games, after losing to practically every team that came to Franklin Field.

Yale's decline has not been nearly so bad, but a defeat by Princeton in 1911, combined with a tie with Harvard, a tie with Princeton and a crushing defeat by Harvard in 1912, brought matters to a head at New Haven.

After days of discussion the Yale athletic heads chose Howard Jones, a former end rush, as a salaried coach for a term of three years. Jones is a brother of the brilliant quarterback, Tad Jones, and a careful study of his record brings out the fact that Howard was a steady and thinking end rush and a most successful coach at Yale and Syracuse. As proof of the confidence Yale men have in him it is only necessary to state that a hidebound and time-honored custom was forgotten when Jones was selected.

This was that a member of the preceding year's eleven, preferably the captain, should be selected as coach. Jones is a graduate of Exeter and Yale. It is rumored that his salary as coach is not far behind the one paid former President Taft, who is a professor in the Yale Law School. All of which proves that a valuable football coach is well paid for his three months' work.

George H. Brooke, the new head of football at Pennsylvania, has been longer in touch with the game than any of his rival coaches. Brooke played at Pennsylvania in 1894 and 1895, and he was one of the first great punters and drop kickers in the sport. His kicking contributed much toward the early fame of Pennsylvania in football. Since graduating he has coached in California and at Swarthmore, which latter team, although representing only a small college, has won victories over university elevens like Cornell and Pennsylvania.

Besides being one of the leading football men of his time, Brooke is one of the best racket and squash players in America, having won the amateur championship some seasons back. His selection as coach, although greatly desired by Pennsylvania men, was somewhat of a surprise because of his long connection at Swarthmore, and it is known that Pennsylvania departed from its precedent by offering Brooke a large salary to take charge of football.

Brooke has written several books on football of a technical nature and has been one of the most advanced coaches in developing open play as made possible by the new rules relating to forward passing and on-side kicking within the past five years. Pennsylvania men place great store by him and it is a foregone conclusion that his team will be among the leaders in the matter of tactics.

Lieutenant Charles Daly is the new man, or rather the old coach of some years back, who has been recalled to West Point in the hope that he will break the winning streak of the Navy in the annual Army-Navy game, which holds peculiar significance to lovers of the sport here because it will be played at the Polo Grounds this year.

Daly is one of the most experienced football players of the country and has been ranked as one of the greatest, too; first at Harvard and later with the Army. At Cambridge as a quarterback his leadership and splendid handling of the ball in 1898 had much to do with the Crimson's overwhelming victories over Yale and Pennsylvania, the first won from either rival in some years.

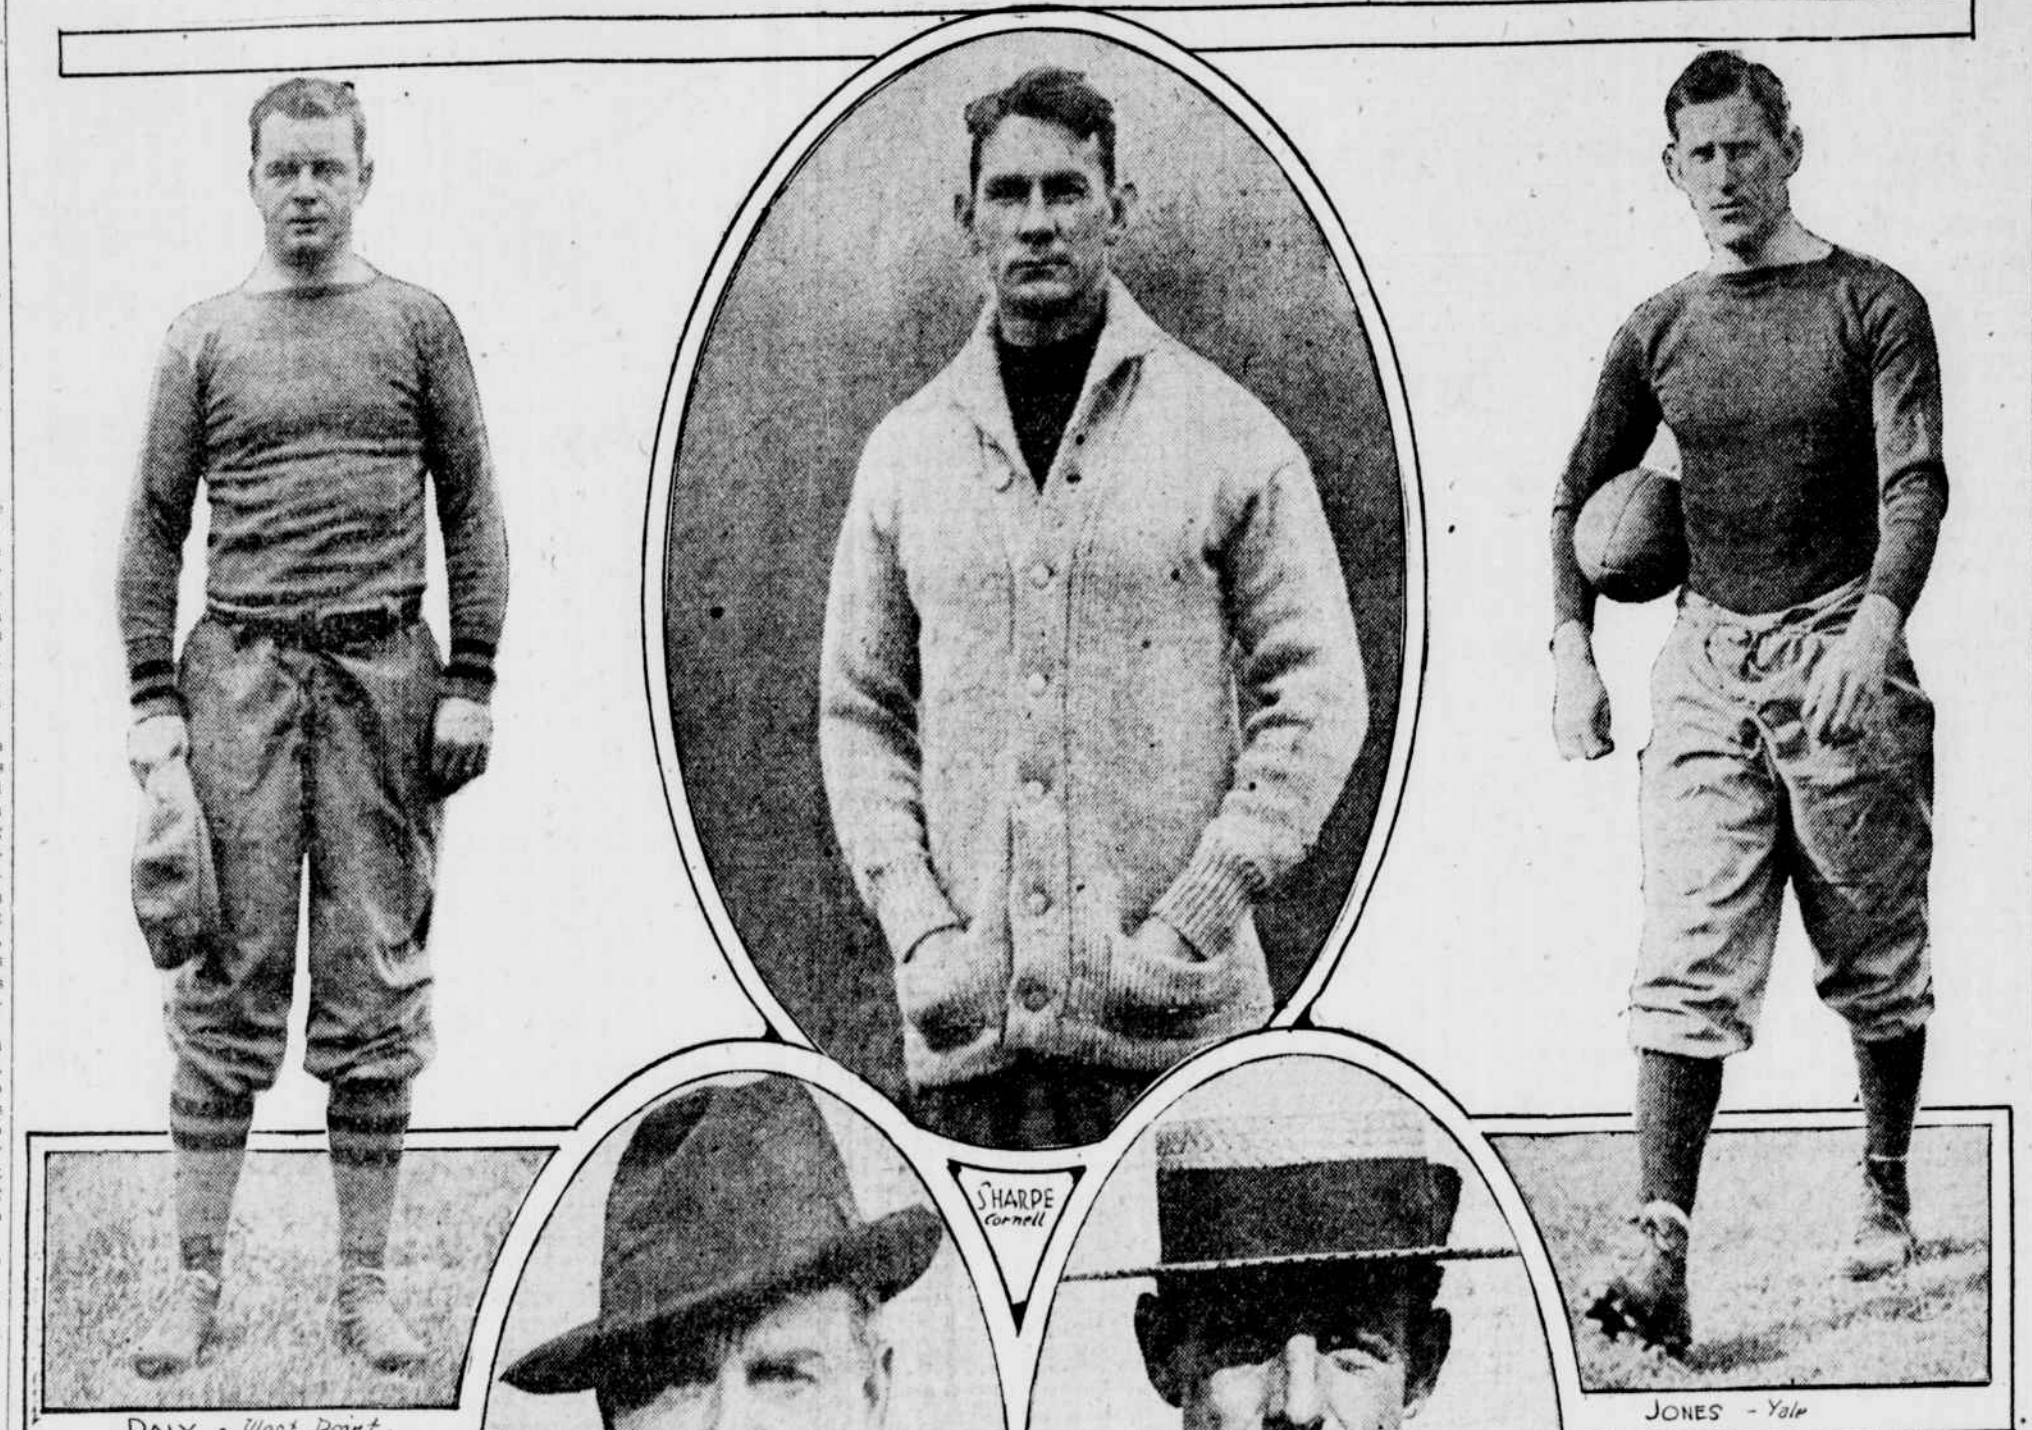

Daly's most brilliant day of football was his almost single-handed defeat of the Navy in 1901, when he ran back a kick-off for a touchdown at the beginning of the second half and later made a field goal, thereby vanquishing the midshipmen by a score of 11 to 5. Since leaving West Point he has been assisting at Harvard in developing different teams and it would seem that, given the material, Daly is the "one best bet" of the Army.

Harvard finally overcame the reluctance of Percy D. Haughton and re-engaged him as head coach after the expiration of his contract last fall, when Yale was defeated 20 to 0 and Princeton 16 to 8.

Haughton is a Harvard graduate and played on the same team with Daly, at tackle and fullback. He made his record as a punter, his kick against Yale in Harvard's victory in 1888 being as masterful as his pupil, Pelton's, the last year. After graduation Haughton assumed charge of football at Cornell for two years, but met with reverses, and it was not until 1908 that Harvard engaged him to handle a situation which was even more disappointing to Cambridge men than has been the one at New Haven for the last few years. Since then Haughton's record has been the best ever made at Cambridge, as his teams have twice defeated Yale, twice played scoreless games and suffered only one defeat. Haughton ranks with Brooke, of Pennsylvania, as among the best amateur racket players in America.

Princeton, it would seem, has altered its coaching plans, and in engaging Bluthenthal, centre, and Andrews, end, of the 1912 team, to do the active coaching this season, is following somewhat the old plan at Yale, which until recent years proved most successful. These men are ably assisted by older graduates, so there is not likely to be such a radical change in football at Princeton as will be the case at Yale and Pennsylvania, where such departures are looked for. One may confidently expect the same strong Princeton eleven that has played the last two seasons. Last year, all things considered, Princeton worked wonders with light material, and undoubtedly the same wise policy of development will be followed. Bluthenthal, in charge, played his best game two seasons back, at which time he inaugurated a new pass to de Witt, when the latter was punting, which contributed much toward the Tigers' defeat of both Yale and Harvard. Dr. Albert H. Sharpe, one of Yale's most versatile and best athletes, is in charge at Cornell, for the second season. Sharpe won his "Y" in four branches of sport at Yale, but was most brilliant at football. After graduation he had charge of athletics at the William Penn Charter School, of Philadelphia, until engaged in a similar capacity at Cornell a year ago. As a school athletics tutor Sharpe established a splendid record. His first year at Cornell was not a successful one in so far as results were concerned, but no man ever went through such trying conditions with such flying colors as did Sharpe, and it all goes to prove that a new confidence has been built up under him which is sure to make for good. Until assuming his duties at Cornell he was recognized as one of the three best football officials in America.

FIRST MEADOW BROOK HUNT Thirty Club Riders Brave Fog and Rain to Follow Hounds.

Hempstead, Long Island, Sept. 20.—Fall for hunting by the Meadow Brook Hunt Club began to-day, with a large attendance. The conditions of weather for the early morning going were disagreeable, but thirty riders braved a fine rain and fog to follow the hounds. Later a drag hunt was held, and the early sport was finished in time for several of the club hunters to take part in the faster galloping after the drag. Cubs are plentiful in the Meadow Brook section and are strong and of good size. Hounds met at Brookville, in a spot well adapted for such sport, the call being for the Brookville Church, where the thirty riders gathered.

The first fence proved a stiff one to A. B. Duncan and Whip Cummings. Both flew out of the saddle, but they were not injured, and retaining their hold on their mounts, scrambled into the saddle and finished with the pack. There will be hunts every day next week, excepting Friday.

Those who took part in the runs to-day were Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Nicholas, Mrs. Archibald Alexander, Miss Elsie Ladew, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davis, David Dows, George Rose, Jr., Ralph N. Ellis, Henry F. Godfrey, H. C. Schwartz, Egerton L. Winthrop, Harvey S. Ladew, James Park, A. B. Duncan, James Cogan, Jeremiah Beale, and Whip Cummings and Weeks and huntsman Ellison.

RECEPTION FOR GERMANS Athletic Commissioners To Be Guests of N. Y. A. C.

The members of the German Imperial Athletic Commission, which has been studying athletics in this country, will be guests to-morrow night at a reception to be given by the New York Athletic Club in its clubhouse. The speakers will be William H. Page, president of the New York Athletic Club; Supreme Court Justice Bartow S. Weeks and James E. Sullivan, the Olympic commissioner, who returned on Friday from the International Athletic Federation's meeting at Berlin. A plan to give a dinner for the foreigners was interrupted by the death of Robert Kammerer, a veteran Winged Foot member, and by the general mourning for Mayor Gaynor.

The German commissioners—Lieutenant von Reichenau, Carl Diem, Dr. Joseph Martin and Joseph Weltzner—will sail for home on Tuesday aboard the Kaiser Wilhelm II. Invitations to be present at a rousing farewell at the pier have been sent out to hundreds of members of athletic clubs, turn-of-minds and college teams.

NATIONAL HORSE SHOW NOW RIVETS ATTENTION

Annual Exhibit in the Garden Will Draw Together the Outdoor Winners.

The coming of the annual exhibition of the National Horse Show Association is a sign of the opening of the winter season in New York. It also means that the outdoor exhibitions are over and that the many horses of various types that have been successful in different parts of the country at the open air shows are to be gathered together in the Madison Square Garden and will compete for national and sometimes international honors.

The horse has been popular this summer. The many shows have been well patronized by lovers of the horse, and those few shows yet to come have also attracted well in the way of entries. What is most pleasing is that the harness horse has come back, and the national show this winter promises to have a better collection of harness horses than it has had for many years.

Secretary James T. Hyde has published his prize list. There are fourteen classes in this list, and the total value of the prize money offered, and the many handsome cups and pieces of plate is $35,000. This is the thirty-ninth annual exhibition of the National Horse Show Association, and it will be the attraction in Madison Square Garden from Saturday, November 15 to Saturday, November 22.

The executive committee is composed of Robert A. Fairbairn, chairman; Joseph W. Harriman, vice-chairman; Frederic Bull, Henry Fairfax, William H. Moore, Alfred G. Vanderbilt and Reginald C. Vanderbilt.

The judges in all the classes, which have just been announced, are: Thoroughbreds, Dr. R. W. Carter, Johnston, N. J.; hackneys, Robert Graham, Toronto, Canada; trotters and roadsters, George Willing, Chestnut Hill, Penn.; Carl S. Burr, Jr., Commack, Long Island; and George R. Cook, Trenton, N. J.; harness horses, four-in-hands, tandems and appointment classes, H. K. Bloodgood, Charles A. Bandouine and E. Von der Horst Koch, all of New York; saddle horses and ponies under saddle, Commandant Feline, France; R. Lawrence Smith, New York; polo ponies, polo pony stallions and broodmares, William A. Hazard, New York, and Foxhall P. Keene, New York; ponies in harness, pony tandems, four-in-hands and pony breeding classes, Joseph E. Widener, Philadelphia; hunters and jumpers, W. L. Lindsay-Hogg, Hayward's Grange, England; Fletcher Harper, Milbrook, N. Y.; F. S. Von Stade, New York; officers' chargers and militia mounts, Commandant Feline, France; Major R. G. Paxton, U. S. A., Washington, and Captain Conrad S. Babcock, 10th United States Cavalry, also reported.

Cornell Team in Need of Forwards, Says Al Sharpe

Hard Practice for Football Men—Last Year's Freshmen Stars and Veterans in the Line-up.

Ithaca, N. Y., Sept. 20.—According to a statement made by Dr. Al Sharpe to-day there is a lack of heavy material for the Cornell forwards which will handicap the team later. The injured candidates are recovering, and almost all were ready for the scrimmage to-day. The practice was particularly strenuous. During the morning each of the coaches took his men and put them through setting-up work. The afternoon practice consisted of a scrimmage between the first and second teams, and lasted for an hour and a half.

Dr. Sharpe at present is eating with his men at the training table, so he can

CARLISLE BEATS ALBRIGHT TO RACE TO POUGHKEEPSIE

Opens Football Season with a 25-to-0 Victory.

Carlisle, Penn., Sept. 20.—The opening gun in the football season was fired when the Carlisle Indians defeated Albright by a score of 25 to 0 here this afternoon. Glenn Warner used many players in the Indian line-up, giving all his men a chance to prove their merit. Although outplayed throughout, the Albright team put up a much better fight than was expected.

Orono, Me., Sept. 20.—The University of Maine started its football season with a victory over the Boston College team here this afternoon. The score was 6 to 0. The coaches found little cause for jubilation, for it was expected that Maine would score three or four touchdowns at least.

PRACTICE BY NAVY SQUAD

Lieut. Howard Puts 4th Class Men Through Stiff Scrimmage.

Annapolis, Sept. 20.—A lively scrimmage of two elevens made up of candidates from the new fourth class attracted a big crowd to the football field at the Naval Academy this afternoon. The line-up was ordered by Lieutenant Howard, head coach, so as to help him decide upon those who would be ordered to join the main squad, which will assemble on Monday.

C. B. Jones, Austin, Lowrey and Jackson did specially good work in the back field, while Blodgett got off some long punts in practice, but did not get in the line-up on account of a weak ankle. There are a number of big fellows who will make strong contenders for positions in the line. Lieutenant Ghormley and Ensign Loftin, former academy team men, joined the coaching staff. McMaster, the trainer, also reported.

Motor Boat Enthusiasts Seek to Arrange Round Trip Contests.

An earnest effort is being made by the officers of the New York Motor Boat Club and others to have a race to Poughkeepsie and return before the season of 1913 closes. Every year since 1904, when Frank Croker's speed boat X, P. D. N. C., covered the course, 128 1/2 statute miles, in 5 hours 11 minutes 50 seconds, there has been a race for high speed boats over this course until this year when, by reason of the National Motor Boat Carnival being held on Lake Erie, the Poughkeepsie race could not be held as a part of the carnival.

The start last year was from Yonkers. That race was won by Lieutenant Noel Sampson's British boat Debutante, at an average speed of 25.47 statute miles an hour. There are a number of speed boats now in commission whose owners will doubtless enter their boats in this speed boat "classic." Entries will be received by Ira Hand, at No. 29 West 39th street, who will also furnish the conditions governing the race.

GOLFERS QUALIFY FOR CUP

Holmes and O'Connor Win in Handicap Tourney.

West Orange, N. J., Sept. 20.—Henry L. Holmes and C. W. O'Connor qualified as the finalists in the summer cup handicap to-day for the trophy donated by W. J. Kingsland, of the board of governors. The competition was between the eight men who during the season handed in the best gross and net scores of the month. In the semi-final round Holmes beat F. C. Reynolds, 2 and 1, and O'Connor defeated F. H. Smith, 3 and 2. In the first round Reynolds (5) defeated J. B. Mix (18), 5 and 4; Holmes defeated T. J. Williams (15), 5 and 3; F. H. Smith (14) won by default from C. R. McMillen (8), and O'Connor (6) defeated A. Ritchie (12), 3 and 1.

It is likely that the coaches will decide on one or two changes before the game with Gettysburg. That game will be used to try out a great many candidates. After it has been played the coaches will have a more definite idea of the worth of their material.

One of the things which characterized the work of the team during the last week was the businesslike manner in which Coach Brooke handled the situation. Every man on the squad had something to do, and nearly every man also had the benefit of expert coaching. In addition to developing Marshall as a drop kicker the coaches are trying to make a place kicker out of Minds.

PENN FOOTBALL LINE PLEASES THE COACHES

All Are Experienced, Active and of Unusually High Weight.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.] Philadelphia, Sept. 20.—At the end of the first week of football practice the University of Pennsylvania promises to have an unusually good line, with more activity and weight than any bunch of forwards in the last half dozen years. The situation in the back field is not so bright, but it is improving daily, and if some of the new men make good this quarter will be able to gain ground consistently enough, the coaches think. In order to make a beginning, Head Coach Brooke selected a preliminary line in the middle of the week and began the drilling for the next game, with Gettysburg College next Saturday. To the surprise of the student body, Mr. Brooke was able to get a line of experienced men which from end to end averaged 188 pounds. Not one of the forwards, however, weighs 200 pounds. Captain Young, the only veteran end on the squad, reported for work weighing 185 pounds. He seems to be in unusually fine condition. He is a certainty for one end, unless the coaches decide to try him in the back field. On the other end, Seelback, a substitute of last year, has been doing the best work and seems to be more highly thought of than Koons, who was first substitute end last year. He weighs 175 pounds. Journey and Carter were Brooke's first choice at tackle. Journey played the position last year and earned the reputation of being a very steady man. Carter was a member of the scrub, not being eligible for the varsity. He gives promise of being one of the best tackles Pennsylvania has had in recent years. Russell, who played guard on his freshman team, now looks the most promising of all the candidates for this position. He weighs 185 pounds and is very strong and active. The coaches have already taken a fancy to Dutton for the other guard. Dutton tried for the team two years ago and was rapidly making a name for himself when he had some trouble with Smith, who was then the head coach. As a result, Dutton left the team, and only returned this fall when a new head coach was secured. He is now in his senior year and ideally built for the position. Simpson, who played a fine game at last year, has this position at his mercy as soon as he passes off one or two examinations. He is one of the best centers the Quakers have had since the days of Captain Torrey. During his absence from practice the coaches have been trying to make a centre out of Harris, who played in the freshman back field last year. Harris weighs 180 pounds and is rapidly learning how to play the new position. In the back field there are now only two men certain of a position. They are Minds and Marshall, both members of last year's varsity. Minds has been selected to be the field general. Marshall was tried at giving signals last year and the year before, but did not measure up to requirements. He is the fastest man on the squad, besides being a splendid drop kicker. Tighe, of last year's freshman team, and Hill, the 1912 substitute for the varsity team, seem to have the call for the other two positions at present. It is likely that the coaches will decide on one or two changes before the game with Gettysburg. That game will be used to try out a great many candidates. Warren and Talbot, last year's tackles, are back. They are strong and experienced and will be hard to out. Talbot, a great defensive player, is sure of a place, but Harrison will press Warren. Roos, the shot putter, who broke the university strength test record, is trying for tackle. He is short on experience. Loughridge and Oakes, of the freshman team last year, are showing up well. Weidemann, another 1913 man, is a possible tackle. He is faster than most of the candidates. White, the freshman centre last fall, also must be considered.

The team is well fortified in guard. Pendleton and Conney, a determined player who shows more fighting spirit than last year, were regulars last fall. Arnold, a "Y" man, out most of last year on account of illness, is a guard candidate. Catlin, who is six feet two and weighs 200 pounds, and Robinson, All-Western guard two years ago, are other possibilities. The last named couldn't play last year on account of the one-year rule. So far he has had little chance to show his ability. It is safe to say his Minnesota reputation won't carry him through. The work he does on Yale Field will be the big thing. Pendleton and Harrison, with a cold and lame shoulder, respectively, are out of the game temporarily.

One of the tentative line-ups of the first team is Dunn and Avery, ends; Talbot and Oakes, tackles; Conney and Arnold, guards; Ketcham, centre; Wilson, quarterback; Knowles and Taylor, halfbacks; and Savage, fullback. So far there has been no chance to get a closer line on the men. Walter Camb, Frank Hinkley, Jim Rollie, "Pa" Corbin, Bigelow, Howe and Corwin have been back. Hutchinson put on a uniform and schooled the men energetically in handling punts. Walter Camb will be at the field regularly all fall. Last year there were murmurs of lack of harmony between him and the younger coaches. He is in accord with the present coaching system. Howard Jones is supreme in the line, and has the complete confidence of the men, and his assistant coaches are of the same quiet, confident nature.

There are fifty-five men in the squad now. Most of them will be kept during the season, though only about thirty will go to the training table.

Yale's team that will open the football season with Wesleyan at New Haven on Wednesday afternoon will be one of the best conditioned ever turned out so early in the season. The squad has been working hard the last ten days, and before that most of the linemen and backs had workouts either at Nantucket or Newport.

Howard Jones, the new head coach, and his assistants, Bomeisler, Spaulding, Gallauer and Dr. Bull, have emphasized the rudimentary work. So far most of the training has been catching punts, passing, kicking, charging, tackling, breaking through and falling on the ball.

The members of last year's team who graduated in June were Gallauer, Bomeisler, Sheldon and Howe, ends; Read, guard; Loftus and Dyer, quarterbacks; Philbin and Spaulding, halfbacks, and Baker, fullback. The centre of the line is intact. The work will be to fill the end positions and the backfield places.

All of the first string men and substitutes of last year's team who are available have reported. "Lefty" Flynn, last year's star fullback, will not return. He has been at Morris Cove, a summer resort near New Haven, this summer, and there have been constant reports that he would be in the Scientific School again this year. It is now known definitely that he will not come back. Pumpelly, out just now with a bruised leg, probably will take his place at fullback. Dunn, another back field man of last year's squad, has reported and is being tried at end. He may be shifted to the back field, though he is heavy and fast and just the type needed for a wing position. Metcalf, a freshman last fall, has been trying to work off conditions and can't play until he removes them. Taylor, Beckert, Knowles, Savage, Markle, Castles, Malcolm, Dietz and Mitchell appear to be the most promising of the backs. With Pumpelly out, Knowles is the best man on the field. He is a fine punter and consistent ground gainer, but rather light, weighing only 170 pounds. Wiser is another fine halfback. He will make a hard fight for the first string. Castles and Markle are good drop kickers, but the former seems to lack the necessary dash. Savage is a brother of the 1909 fullback. His weight, 155, is against him. Malcolm showed up well in his only scrimmage. Mitchell is a fine kicker and a brother of Yale's former star punter. Wheeler, who was first choice for quarterback last year, is playing on the second team, as the coaches are trying Wilson at quarter. The latter is much heavier than any of the other candidates, but has lots of speed and has been handling the ball cleanly. He is the early season "find" and looks like a sure "Y" man. Thompson and Cornish are also out for quarterback. The latter, of the baseball nine, is a little light, but was on last year's squad. Cornish won his "Y" last year. He has done a hundred yards in ten seconds flat and is the fastest man on the field. He is out of the game with tonsillitis at present. Captain Ketcham, twice an All-American centre, will not be moved to end. His speed and the experience he has had make him a fixture for his old job. Martyring is his understudy. He is a sterling player who would have made the team under ordinary circumstances. Knapp is third choice. The end positions will be hard to fill, but the coaches are encouraged by the material. Avery, who played regularly last year, has reported. He is a fast and dependable player, but rather light. Roberts and Driscoll, of last year's freshman team, are showing well. Carter, who got his "Y" at end last year, is back while Dave Dunn, who was out of the game most of last year, also has returned. "Red" Brann did good work last year.

Guernsey, last year's brilliant freshman end, hasn't been out as yet. He is trying to remove first year conditions. Sheldon, it is reported, may return for post-guard work. Tom Gille, the first string pitcher last year, is another eligible candidate, while Gardner Osborn, of last year's squad, is husky and fast and handles the forward pass well. Warren and Talbot, last year's tackles, are back. They are strong and experienced and will be hard to out. Talbot, a great defensive player, is sure of a place, but Harrison will press Warren. Roos, the shot putter, who broke the university strength test record, is trying for tackle. He is short on experience. Loughridge and Oakes, of the freshman team last year, are showing up well. YALE OPENS FOOTBALL SEASON ON WEDNESDAY

Well Conditioned Squad Will Meet Wesleyan in First Game for the Blue.

FLYNN IS DEFINITELY OUT

Captain Ketcham Decides to Hold His Old Place at Centre Rush—Wilson Apparently a "Find."

Yale's team that will open the football season with Wesleyan at New Haven on Wednesday afternoon will be one of the best conditioned ever turned out so early in the season. Howard Jones, the new head coach, and his assistants, Bomeisler, Spaulding, Gallauer and Dr. Bull, have emphasized the rudimentary work. So far most of the training has been catching punts, passing, kicking, charging, tackling, breaking through and falling on the ball.

The members of last year's team who graduated in June were Gallauer, Bomeisler, Sheldon and Howe, ends; Read, guard; Loftus and Dyer, quarterbacks; Philbin and Spaulding, halfbacks, and Baker, fullback. The centre of the line is intact. The work will be to fill the end positions and the backfield places.

All of the first string men and substitutes of last year's team who are available have reported. "Lefty" Flynn, last year's star fullback, will not return. He has been at Morris Cove, a summer resort near New Haven, this summer, and there have been constant reports that he would be in the Scientific School again this year. It is now known definitely that he will not come back. Pumpelly, out just now with a bruised leg, probably will take his place at fullback. Dunn, another back field man of last year's squad, has reported and is being tried at end. He may be shifted to the back field, though he is heavy and fast and just the type needed for a wing position. Metcalf, a freshman last fall, has been trying to work off conditions and can't play until he removes them. Taylor, Beckert, Knowles, Savage, Markle, Castles, Malcolm, Dietz and Mitchell appear to be the most promising of the backs.

With Pumpelly out, Knowles is the best man on the field. He is a fine punter and consistent ground gainer, but rather light, weighing only 170 pounds. Wiser is another fine halfback. He will make a hard fight for the first string. Castles and Markle are good drop kickers, but the former seems to lack the necessary dash. Savage is a brother of the 1909 fullback. His weight, 155, is against him. Malcolm showed up well in his only scrimmage. Mitchell is a fine kicker and a brother of Yale's former star punter.

Wheeler, who was first choice for quarterback last year, is playing on the second team, as the coaches are trying Wilson at quarter. The latter is much heavier than any of the other candidates, but has lots of speed and has been handling the ball cleanly. He is the early season "find" and looks like a sure "Y" man.

Thompson and Cornish are also out for quarterback. The latter, of the baseball nine, is a little light, but was on last year's squad. Cornish won his "Y" last year. He has done a hundred yards in ten seconds flat and is the fastest man on the field. He is out of the game with tonsillitis at present.

Captain Ketcham, twice an All-American centre, will not be moved to end. His speed and the experience he has had make him a fixture for his old job. Martyring is his understudy. He is a sterling player who would have made the team under ordinary circumstances. Knapp is third choice.

The end positions will be hard to fill, but the coaches are encouraged by the material. Avery, who played regularly last year, has reported. He is a fast and dependable player, but rather light. Roberts and Driscoll, of last year's freshman team, are showing well. Carter, who got his "Y" at end last year, is back while Dave Dunn, who was out of the game most of last year, also has returned. "Red" Brann did good work last year.

Guernsey, last year's brilliant freshman end, hasn't been out as yet. He is trying to remove first year conditions. Sheldon, it is reported, may return for post-guard work. Tom Gille, the first string pitcher last year, is another eligible candidate, while Gardner Osborn, of last year's squad, is husky and fast and handles the forward pass well.

Warren and Talbot, last year's tackles, are back. They are strong and experienced and will be hard to out. Talbot, a great defensive player, is sure of a place, but Harrison will press Warren. Roos, the shot putter, who broke the university strength test record, is trying for tackle. He is short on experience. Loughridge and Oakes, of the freshman team last year, are showing up well. Weidemann, another 1913 man, is a possible tackle. He is faster than most of the candidates. White, the freshman centre last fall, also must be considered.

The team is well fortified in guard. Pendleton and Conney, a determined player who shows more
